NON-RESIDENT TAXES

In the City of Bangor, in the County of Penobscot and State of Maine, for the year 1885, remaining unpaid October 1st, 1886.

The following list of taxes on real estate of non-resident owners, in the city of Bangor, for the year 1885, in bills committed to John L. Crosby, Collector of Taxes for said city, on the fifth day of October, 1885, has been returned by him to me as remaining unpaid on the first day of October, 1886, by his certificate of that date, and now remains unpaid; and notice is hereby given, that if the said taxes, and interest and charges thereon, are not paid into the Treasury of the said city within eighteen months from the date of the commitment of the said bills, so much of the real estate taxed as will be sufficient to pay the amount due therefor, including interest and charges, will, without further notice, be sold at public auction, at the office of the City Treasurer, in the City Hall building in said city, on Wednesday, the sixth day of April, 1887, at 10 o'clock A. M.

ROUGH ON THE WOULD-BE PLUMBERS.
Maryland's last legislature passed an act to prevent incompetent persons from practicing the plumbing business in Baltimore. Now if the Maine solons would pass one to prevent don't-know-their-business barbers from practicing their business, we that do know the art would have a better show than now. Whether they do or not we will take our chances with the rest, for we are confident that the excellence of our work will in time commend itself to a large majority of the shavers in Bangor. B. LANE,

A Creaking Hinge
Is dry and turns hard, until oil is applied, after which it moves easily. When the joints, or hinges, of the body are stiffened and inflamed by Rheumatism, they cannot be moved without causing the most excruciating pains. Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by its action on the blood, relieves this condition, and restores the joints to good working order.
Ayer's Sarsaparilla has effected, in our city, many most remarkable cures, in cases which baffled the efforts of the most experienced physicians. Were it necessary, I could give the names of many individuals who have been cured by taking this medicine. In my case it has worked wonders, relieving me of after being troubled with it for years. In this, and all other diseases arising from impure blood, there is no remedy with which I am acquainted, that affords such relief as Ayer's Sarsaparilla.—R. H. Lawrence, M. D., Baltimore, Md.
Ayer's Sarsaparilla cured me of Gout and Rheumatism, when nothing else would. It has eradicated every trace of disease from my system.—R. H. Short, Manager Hotel Belmont, Lowell, Mass.
I was, during many months, a sufferer from chronic Rheumatism. The disease afflicted me grievously, in spite of all the remedies I could find, until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I took several bottles of this preparation, and was speedily restored to health.—J. Fream, Independence, Va.
Ayer's Sarsaparilla,
Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin.

There have been twenty-two deaths in Livermore since the first of March. The town had 1,262 inhabitants in 1880, which shows a very great fatality for a place supposed to be very healthy, and which has had no epedemic.

Aroostook.

During the first fourteen (shipping) days of this month there were sixty-three cars of freight sent from Presque Isle, sixty-seven from Caribou, and ninety-two from Fort Fairfield.

Considerable building is going on near the Caribou railway station. The Grangers have put up a fine store-house, and S. S. Hackett is erecting a store-house for shingles.

The starch factory at Fort Fairfield has closed operations for the season. Potatoes are bringing a good price for shipping and the farmers are happy.

A party from Caribou and other towns in the vicinity will leave in a week or two for Florida. Those proposing to go from Caribou are Rev. A. Wiren, C. H. Church and Lewis K. Duff.

A gentleman of Rock Island, Ill., has written to parties in Caribou, inquiring the cost of building and running a starch factory. He has in view an experiment of the enterprise in that vicinity.

Contributions for the Eastport sufferers are being brought in by our farmers, and left at the Grange store-house near the station. A carload of potatoes and other articles were sent Wednesday. Our farmers are showing a commendable interest in this matter. Credit is particularly due to John Eddy, Esq., of Woodland, who has devoted his time and efforts to the good work.

Cumberland.

Arthur D. Little, son of Mr. T. J. Little, of Portland, has received a patent for lining digesters.

Mr. James H. McMullen, of Portland, has purchased the house on State street, lately occupied by Wm. E. Gould, from the First National Bank. The price paid is said to be $19,000.

The annual meeting of the Home for Aged Women was held in Portland, Tuesday. The receipts of the year have been $1,247.58; expenditures, $3,235.13. Mrs. J. T. Gilman was elected president and Mrs. Harriet S. McCobb, secretary.

General Manager Payson Tucker says there is not a word of truth in the statement published in the Express, that Mayor Chapman has received a proposition from the Maine Central to lease the Portland & Ogdensburg railroad.

Mr. McBrion, of Portland, was arrested Tuesday, for brutally beating his wife. He struck her on the head with a broomstick, causing the blood to flow freely. He then choked her, scratched her, and abused her generally.

Franklin.

Some of Jay's farmers who raised sweet corn for the corn factory, at Jay Bridge, received as high as $100 per acre from land used for this purpose.

Some of the hunters have returned from a moose hunt. They got several nice ones. Moose, caribou and deer are plenty around Kennebago and Little Kennebago Lakes.

Lieut. LaForrest Howe, the temperance orator, visited Rangeley, last week, and spoke four times, three times on temperance and once to the Grand Army boys. At each meeting the union church was filled to its utmost capacity. Mr. Howe left here Monday morning for Phillips to speak, and after visiting several towns in this county he will return to Rangeley for another week. Mr. Howe had the iron-clad pledge with him during his stay there. He got sixteen names to it, both old and young.

Thursday afternoon, Deputy Sheriff Sylvester and Court Messenger Gould made a raid on three houses at West Farmington, and three houses in Temple, where it was alleged that stolen goods were concealed. A quantity was seized in each house raided. The occupants of the houses stoutly claimed that they were given the property during the fire, and will be given the opportunity to prove their assertions, if they can.

The Phillips Phonograph is informed by Mr. Gilbert L. Kempton that another steam saw mill is a near probability in that vicinity. Messrs. Staples and Ripley, of Buckfield, are believed to be about purchasing the 1,200 acres of State land, comprising the minister's lot of township No. 6, adjoining Phillips to the west, with the view to utilizing the spruce timber with which it abounds. It is believed by Mr. Kempton that the proposed enterprise will be carried into effect, and that a $3,000 portable engine will go to the woods of No. 6 as soon as the early winter sledding will permit.

Secretary Dana, of the Lewiston committee that extended aid to Farmington, has received the following:

FARMINGTON, Oct. 25.

F. W. DANA, ESQ., Dear Sir: In reply to your telegram, the sentiment of our citizens, so far as I can learn, is to accept voluntary contributions for the present. We have not had time to ascertain the amount needed for immediate wants. We feel Lewiston is under no obligations to send any further aid, you have already saved us thousands of dollars.

Yours truly, J. W. FAIRBANKS.
Treasurer Citizens Committee.

A bear has lately been seen about a little settlement near Rangeley Lake, and a young man who lives there, wishing to distinguish himself, conceived the idea of killing Bruin. He adopted a unique plan. He went, about nightfall, to a place where he knew the bear had been seen, climbed a tree and, rifle in hand, waited. His plan worked perfectly, or at least part of it. He had not been long in the tree when, sure enough, along came a bear—and a big fellow. To the young man, he looked as large as a small cow, and he could see the fire flash from his eyes. The would-be hunter trembled for fear that he would be seen by the bear, and did not so much as move, to say nothing of trying his Winchester on the bear. He waited until his Bruinship passed by, and then quickly descended from his perch, and at not much less than a 2.40 clip made his way to the settlement in safety.

Hancock.

Mr. Benjamin Shute has raised 6,000 cabbages the present year on his farm at North Hancock.

Allen, son of Amos Rooks, of Ellsworth, was thrown from a carriage, Saturday, and both wheels passed over his head. He received some bad cuts but will probably be out again in a few days.

The steam pipe at Mason's mill, Ellsworth Falls, burst Friday, filling the engine room with ashes and steam. No one was hurt as the workmen were all at the boarding house. But had the engineer been there, he would probably have been badly burned.

Stephen Sellers, of Deer Isle, was victimized to the tune of $32, all the money he had, in Portland, Tuesday, by the old trick of a sharper making his acquaintance and wanting to borrow money for a sudden emergency.

Mr. Luke Harriman, of Penobscot, millwright, who had been at work for Mason & Cushman, Ellsworth, in traveling Mill street after dark a few days ago, stepped off the bank and fell eight feet on to the rocks below. His collar bone was broken, and he received other injuries.

On Sunday last, the report was current on the streets that a young man residing in an outlying district, says the Ellsworth American, while in a state of intoxication, attacked his father, and that the father, in self-defence, inflicted wounds from which the son died. Monday morning brought the news that the son was not dead, but "all right, now."

Work on many new buildings at Bar Harbor and other points on Mount Desert, will be vigorously pushed through the winter months. Building lots on desirable locations continue to command fabulous prices. It is expected that next season at Bar Harbor will surpass anything ever known in the history of that now famous resort.

Last Saturday, week, as Americus Clark, of the Togus district, Penobscot, was returning home with a load of grain from a week with a threshing machine, his wife being at a neighbor's house came out, saying she would ride home on his load; so, climbing up, she seated herself satisfactorily and started for home. She had gone but a short distance when a sack of grain sliding off, took Mrs. Clark with it, putting her ankle out of joint, breaking the bone and otherwise injuring her.

Several days ago, says the Ellsworth American, a stranger was found on our streets in a helpless and partially delirious state, who appeared to be in need of help. A team was procured and he was taken to the poorhouse where he was most kindly cared for by Mr. and Mrs. Jones. After a night's rest he seemed somewhat better and though reticent about himself, he said in substance, we are informed, that his name was Daniel McNeal; that he married a Miss Joy at Winter Harbor, who is now deceased, and that he had a daughter at Winter Harbor whom he had not seen for fourteen years. He told Mrs. Jones that he was a drinking man, that he had sold his clothes for rum, and that previous to his coming to her house he had lain out of doors two nights. The man said once that he recently left a vessel in Rockland, and at another time that he left a vessel in Calais and was trying to get to Bangor. In a day or two after he went to the poorhouse, he grew rapidly worse, and, though he had careful nursing and skillful medical attendance, he died on Thursday last. He was buried in Woodbine cemetery. He was said to be a good looking man, less than forty years of age.

Kennebec.

Mr. Charles Sylvester, of Augusta, recently lost a valuable three-year-old steer, the animal swelling up and dying in a few minutes.

A cow belonging to Thornton Worthing, of Branch Mills, China, broke her neck while engaged in a fight with other cattle.

Sidney held a town meeting, Monday, to see if the town would allow the grange to add a story to the town house for a hall, and they voted to give the grange that privilege. The selectmen, with a committee of the grange, will have charge of the improvement.

A New Mills, Gardiner, resident, was sent to the Augusta jail, recently, for drunkenness and abusing his wife. He struck her twice with his fist and, being a powerful man, the blows had telling effect. The sentence was thirty days.

An anxious father and mother were in Gardiner, Tuesday, searching for their erring daughter, who had eloped the previous night with a young man, aged twenty-two years, by the name of Crossman. The girl's name was Hopkins. She is only fifteen years old, and the parties reside in West Gardiner. They left a letter addressed to the parents, stating that they had proceeded to Lewiston, but developments tend to prove that they left on the 11.14 train, the same night, for some unknown destination. The police have obtained a clue, and undoubtedly their apprehension will soon occur.

Monday, a man of about average size, with weather-beaten, browned face, sunken cheeks and iron gray hair and mustache, tramped into Augusta, says the Journal, and applied for work at Doughty Bros.' harness manufactory, which was given him, and Tuesday he was busily engaged over the leather. He gave his name as Henry Arey, aged fifty-seven years, and claimed that he had traveled from Oregon to Maine, making the entire distance on foot, with the exception of seventeen miles. "I have been absent from Maine," he said, "twenty-eight years. I was a native of St. Albans, and in 1858 sailed from New York, around Cape Horn to San Francisco and remained on the Pacific coast up to a year ago last February, when I started to tramp to my native State, the doctors having told me my lungs were weak and I must have a change of climate. I have been on the road ever since, passing through Idaho, Montana, Utah, Colorado, Kansas, Arkansas, and St. Louis. To Maine I came by the way of Chicago and New York, travelling the most direct route I could find. I crossed the Mississippi on the ice and camped out of doors during the warm weather. I swam one lake. In Arkansas I asked for shelter at one house and was ordered to leave, the proprietor threatening to put a hole through me with his gun." The man tells his story to everybody and says it is true.

Knox.

Lime casks jumped last week from eighteen to twenty cents. They are not particularly scarce but the demand is good. They will bring twenty cents and have faith they'll go to twenty-five.

J. J. Ilsley, of Portland, made a careful survey of Thomaston, last week, for the Camden & Rockland Water Company. The object was to look over the ground and make an estimate of the expense of laying pipes to supply the town with Oyster River water. He says that water can be brought there to have a head of two hundred feet.

Oxford.

Frank Decoster, of East Buckfield, in a fit of insanity, escaped from the house and fled to the woods, one morning last week. The neighborhood turned out, searching nearly all day and finally secured him in the afternoon. He had been ill with fever for several weeks.

Piscataquis.

Mr. Gould, of Milo, has sold his hotel at that place to Mr. Walter Weymouth, $2,000 being the price paid.

Somerset.

Mr. J. H. Sandford, of Skowhegan, while plowing in his field October 20th with his son, ran his plow into a den of snakes, from which they took 113, of various lengths, from six inches to one foot; they were of various colors, some gray, some striped, green, yellow and black, with yellow rings around the neck. No old ones to be seen, but Mr. Sanford thinks if he had followed up the search, he would have found the heads of the family, says the Reporter.

There have been several cases of typhoid fever in Pittsfield of late. Two of these resulted fatally.

On Saturday afternoon last, the farm buildings of A. H. Smith, with their contents of hay and furniture, were burned. Mr. Smith and his family were absent at the time. The fire was undoubtedly the work of an incendiary. The buildings were insured for $1,800; loss about $2,000.

Waldo.

The Webster school house in Troy was totally destroyed by fire one night last week. School was keeping and the scholars lost all their books. The fire is thought to have been incendiary, as the house was not locked. Mr. Crawford, the teacher, will continue the school in a private house.

Washington.

A surveying party commenced work last Monday morning at Jacksonville on the Shore Line Railroad, and are working westward. The party numbers some eight, in charge of F. A. McInnes, C. E.

The house of Asa B. Gray, of Machiasport, was burned recently. A part of the household goods were saved. Loss about $400; no insurance. Fire caused by a child playing with matches. Mr. Gray was badly burned in the face while at work trying to save goods in the building.

Cherryfield has been talking up a water supply from Cherryfield Pond for several years. It was not until late, however, that measures were taken to test the experiment. Permission was received this week from William Freeman, who controls the land adjacent to the outlet of this body of water, to proceed in the work. A canal four hundred feet in length and eight feet wide, leading into Schoodic brook, tributary of the Narraguagus, was completed Thursday. During the first two days the pond, which contains a surface of eight hundred acres, was diminished in depth to the extent of three feet, says the Machias Republican.

Whig and Courier.

BOUTELLE & BURR, PROPRIETORS.

C. A. BOUTELLE, EDITOR.

All business letters should be addressed to Boutelle & Burr, and communications intended for publication should be addressed: "Editor of Whig and Courier."

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1886.

The Boston Traveller cautions the Massachusetts Republicans against over confidence in the result of Tuesday's election. All that is necessary to secure a grand Republican victory is to bring out a full vote.

The reason why Gen. Corse delays his acceptance of the appointment as postmaster of Boston is said to be in order that he may continue his active work on the Democratic Campaign Committee until after the election.

One of the gentlemen who is to manage the shoe factory in Calais says that at least fifty new houses will be needed in that city another season to accommodate the factory hands. Calais has evidently taken a step in the right direction in building up this new industry.

The friends of Representative Mills, of Texas, are very anxious about the result of the election in his district, as the Knights of Labor and prohibitionists have indorsed the Republican candidate. A break in the solid Democratic delegation from Texas would be a victory indeed.

"John L. Jr. knocked out" is the chaste headline in the Commercial over a despatch announcing the death of the infant son of the pugilist, the little one having been stricken down by that dread disease diphtheria. For pure heartlessness this goes away beyond anything we have seen for a long time.

After a conference of the Democratic managers in New York, it having been decided that the defeat of Peckham, candidate for Judge of the Court of Appeals, was practically assured, word was sent out to trade him off for votes for members of the Assembly, which the Democrats are anxious to control owing to the pending election of a United States Senator. Republicans will hardly be caught in that trap, as they have nothing to gain and everything to lose.

The Springfield Republican wonders what "the Republican party proposes to itself for its future mission." Well for one thing to clear out an Administration that has made such an exhibition of hypocrisy that even the leading Democratic organ in the country has felt constrained to rebuke it for repeated and shameless violations of the voluntary reform pledges that have been scattered broadcast.

It is a little singular that express cars containing hundreds of thousands of dollars in money and valuables should be left entirely in the charge of one man. The ease with which "Jim Cummings" bound and gagged his victim, took $50,000 from the express car attached to the St. Louis and San Francisco train and made his escape certainly indicates that more than one man is needed for this sort of service. A second man in this case would have saved $50,000.

Editor Rust, of the Belfast Age, is of the opinion that free fish would benefit the consumer. Strange how these Democrats disagree. Col. French, who is running for Congress on the Democratic ticket in Massachusetts, and who is just now devoting considerable time to the fishery question, declares that free fish would ruin the American fishing industry and would in no wise benefit the consumers. Does Editor Rust think Col. French is insincere, or are we to understand that the Democratic candidate does not know what he is talking about?

The St. Croix Courier, published at St. Stephen, N. B., slashes into the New England press generally for the statement that goods were stolen from Eastport by Canadians during the late conflagration. The Courier repudiates the report and says the goods were simply taken on board the Canadian boats for safe keeping at the instance of the sufferers themselves. We should prefer to accept this statement, as it is hard to believe that people would sink so low as to loot a town when in such dire distress, but as the original statement was telegraphed to the New England papers by a resident of Eastport, who had every opportunity to know what was going on about him at the time, it must of necessity stand until authoritatively corrected. If such correction is made it will be promptly inserted in the New England papers. Canada has been engaged in so many small acts of late it is not surprising that the papers handled this alleged outrage with considerable severity.

France and America.

The telegraphic columns of the WHIG this morning contain an interesting description of the ceremonies in New York yesterday on the occasion of the unveiling of the statue of Liberty Enlightening the World. In the early days of this country when our forefathers were struggling for that Independence and Liberty to which we to-day owe our proud position among the nations of the world, France extended a helping hand at a time when assistance was sorely needed, and the early ties of warm friendship that then took deep root in the hearts of the people of the two countries now find expression in France's magnificent gift to America, the land of the free and the home of the brave. The suggestion was first given birth some twenty years ago at a dinner by the eminent French statesman, Laboulaye. That is the suggestion of a memorial as expressive of the fact that true friendship and gratitude may have permanent existence between nations, the contrary having been maintained by some of those present on that occasion. Nothing was then said as to the form of the memorial and it remained for Bartholdi, to whom the suggestion was made, to conceive some years later the grand idea of symbolizing the great fundamental principle upon which this Government was founded.—Liberty. The French people promptly subscribed and the fund necessary for the work was secured. The statue is worthy of the cause it represents. Measuring one hundred and fifty-one feet to the tip of the torch, it stands on a pedestal one hundred and fifty-five feet in height, so that from base to summit the grand structure is three hundred and six feet. Some idea of the heroic proportions of the statue may be formed from the fact that the little finger is eight feet in length. It is indeed a noble gift from a generous and valued friend and will the more firmly cement the old bond of good fellowship between France and America.

The Doubleday-Edgerton Letters.

[Chicago Inter-Ocean.]

Mr. Cleveland is either a President who intrusts the administration of affairs entirely to deputies or he is one of the smaller kind of politicians who run with the reform hare and hold with the Democratic hounds. He has written and spoken whenever there was a chance to write or speak, and sometimes without waiting for a plausible pretext, as a civil-service reformer of more than Mugwumpian ardor. The distribution of spoils to Democrats and displacement of Republican officials has been more rapid and accompanied by harsher methods under Cleveland than under Jackson.

The time has come when Mr. Cleveland must plead to either neglect of official duty or to insincerity of purpose. All of Mr. Cleveland's heads of departments are in open opposition to the civil-service law. If he is in earnest as a reformer he can replace the men who thwart his will by others who are in sympathy with it. If he does not he stands convicted of either obtaining the Presidency under false pretenses or of being a mere French major of the palace, a de jure President, from whose impotent hands the reins of government have been snatched by ambitious subordinates.

Mr. Edgerton, of the Civil Service Commission, has, in so many words, informed the public, by means of his letters to General Doubleday, that the "letter of the law" in regard to removals would be rigidly adhered to. This means that heads of departments and sub-departments will be allowed to remove Republicans for the mere purpose of replacing them by Democrats. The letter of the law, Mr. Edgerton says, leaves "the power to remove for even the most partisan and selfish reasons, in a legal sense unabridged." That is to say, Mr. Edgerton (himself being witness), has, with his brother Democratic Commissioner of the Civil Service, instructed heads of departments and sub-departments that they are at liberty to remove the best present incumbent of an office, and to supplant him by a perhaps worthless and certainly untried political or personal friend even if "the most political and selfish reasons" influence them. And this with Mr. Cleveland's famous aphorism, "A public office is a public trust" ringing in their ears. This with the repeated, and one is forced to say hypocritical, letters of Presidential affirmation of devotion to the spirit of civil service reform lying on their desks.

The circumstances which called forth the correspondence between General Doubleday and Commissioner Edgerton, a correspondence which precludes the necessity of further correspondence on the part of aggrieved and discharged employes or their friends with the Civil Service Bureau, since it contains the official dictum of the commissioners in favor of filling all the departments with Democrats as rapidly as possible, was occasioned by the sudden removal of Mr. Scheibner from a clerkship in the Chicago Custom House. He was removed simply to make room for a Democrat.

It is General Doubleday, himself a Democrat, or at any rate a voter for Cleveland, who remonstrates against the removal. He says that Mr. Scheibner was his first sergeant at Fort Sumter, one of the gallant men who refused to desert to the rebels or to haul down the flag when the first shot of the war was fired. He is thus a venerable and historic character. He served through the war after the capitulation of Sumter. He has held the post from which he is now summarily discharged through several administrations, and has received flattering testimonials as to his industry and ability from each retiring Collector of the port. His ability is recognized by the Democratic Collector who now discharges him. Indeed, feeling ashamed of the unpleasant task imposed upon him by party necessity, Collector Seeberger writes to him: "I have no fault to find with you, but the pressure put upon me is too strong to resist."

This "pressure" is "put upon" the Collector by Democrats, by the men who prate in their platforms of friendship for the soldiers and whose practice it is to turn them out of office as quickly as possible. It will not be possible to find a better official than Mr. Scheibner; it is not probable that as good a one will be found; it is certain that it will take months or even years of training to make as good a one out of the best raw material. The Democratic party has never been shrewd even in the management of small affairs; it provides for its dependents with a club, not by exercise of strategy. If its managers had been endowed with the prescience of three-card monte men they would have argued thus in Mr. Scheibner's case: "We are suspected of unfriendliness toward soldiers, or, at any rate, of half sympathy with the rebellion; there are scores of places in the Custom House now held by Republicans, which we can safely fill up with Democrats, but this one is held by a man who was identified with resistance to the first act of rebellion, and is distinguished by gallant service from the first to the last battle of the war; he must stay."

Such diplomacy was, however, beyond Democratic conception. It is a party too stupid to even appreciate Cleveland's adroit attempt at placation of the civil service reformers concurrently with delivery of the offices to the spoilsmen. It is a party whose political sagacity is limited to the use of the official club. "The knock down and drag out" policy in the matter of the offices is that which commends itself to the ordinary Democrat. And Mr. Edgerton's letter proves that the majority of the Civil Service Commission is made up of ordinary Democrats.

As for General Doubleday, he has done his part bravely and well. He has come out in support, not the less laudable that it was fruitless, of a gallant comrade. He voted for Cleveland in the belief that he was a civil service reformer. The flippant assurance of Mr. Edgerton that he and his fellow commissioners were "not to be moved by fear of an appeal to the President" has probably furnished the general food for reflection. Many an appeal has been made to the President for enforcement of his frequent declarations of purpose to uphold the law. He has acted in response to none of them.

The Des Moines Register says: "There is one thing to be said of Mr. Blaine and General Logan. Their Republican ardor does not cool nor their party activity stop with personal defeat."

Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Colic, Cramps, Cholera Morbus, etc.

The Fall of the year is especially favorable to the development of rheumatism and its resultant maladies. Much of the bowel complaint so prevalent at this season of the year is, if not directly caused by rheumatism. For this reason SALVATINE, for rheumatism, is valuable. No other remedy for rheumatism and neuralgia so efficacious has ever been offered the public. It cleanses the blood from all foreign bodies, disease germs, etc., and thus removes the cause of the disease.

BACK IN WISCASSET JAIL.

On Charge of Attempted Murder.

LEWISTON, Me., Oct. 28. A Journal special says that Detective True lodged in Wiscasset jail Wednesday Louis Phillips, the Corsican, charged with attempting to murder the toll keeper at Wiscasset bridge. Since his escape from jail he has endeavored to reach Canada. For concealment he dressed in woman's clothing. He was arrested near the border for horse stealing and True spotted him in the Bangor jail.

A Little Boy Crushed to Death.

THOMASTON, Oct. 28. While the heavy ugger wagon of John Bird & Co. was coming up Mill river Hill, today the six year old son of Artemas W. Allen attempting to get on or off the wagon fell under the wheel. His head was crushed and he died instantly.

DEATH ON THE RAIL.

A Train Rushes into a Stone Quarry.

Seven Passengers out of Ten in the Passenger Car Meet a Horrible Death.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 28. The limited passenger train on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St Paul Railroad was derailed when about three hours out and was thrown into an old stone quarry. Particulars of the accident are hard to get, but it is admitted by the company that one coach and three sleepers were wrecked and five or six persons killed. A number of physicians left on the early train for the scene.

Seven out of Ten Passengers Killed.

9.30 A M—It is now reported that out of ten persons who occupied the passenger coach seven were killed. A gentleman from Chicago and two children from Winona, Minn., were the only ones saved from the passenger coach. None of the occupants of the sleepers were injured. Nothing has yet been learned in regard to the number wounded.

Assistant General Manager Tucker of St Paul, this morning made the following statement: "Our limited express ran into an open switch fifteen miles this side of Portage, Wis., last night. The baggage and mail cars were demolished and so far as we know five people were killed. I don't know how many were injured or how badly. The demolished cars caught fire and were burned up. One sleeper was almost destroyed by fire. We have sent out two special trains this morning with physicians and help and everything possible is being done."

A Passenger Coach Telescoped

So far particulars are very meagre. There is reason to believe that the loss of life is not great, although the wildest stories are in circulation. It is said that the most distressing and harrowing scenes took place after the wreck. This accident is the first one to the limited express which runs at a very high rate of speed.

B. Loewenbach, a jobber of this city, was on the wrecked train. He says the scenes after the accident were harrowing. The passenger coach, which he says contained between 15 and 20 persons, was telescoped at both ends and the fire and smoke that enveloped the wreck prevented the imprisoned and injured passengers from escaping.

A Terrible Scene.

The passengers from the sleepers gathered around the blazing cars but were powerless to render assistance. Men and women could be seen tearing their hair in the agony of the moment and frightful screams issued from the death trap. One heavy woman tore up one of the seats with superhuman strength and endeavored to break her way out of the flaming pyre but her strength failed and she fell and met a horrible death.

The Victims Burned in the Wreck.

Only three persons escaped from the passenger car, a man and two children. The man was observed as he forced his way through the ventilator on the top of the car, with all his clothing on his body from his waist down burned off and his flesh roasted and bleeding from the cuts inflicted by the broken glass.

Every one of the wrecked cars were consumed with the exception of the last sleeper, which was cut away from the burning wreck. All of the bodies of the victims were burned in the wreck.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Funeral of Hon. Mason W. Tappan.

BRADFORD, Oct. 28. The funeral of Hon Mason W. Tappan late Attorney General of New Hampshire, occurred to-day. The services were conducted by Rev. J. F. Loveing of Worcester, assisted by Rev. Mr. Abbott of Swansea, Mass. Col. Tappan's chaplain in the late war. The body was interred in the new cemetery with public honors.

A Terrible Fall of Three Students.

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 28. While C. A. Gardiner, of Biddeford, Me., a Dartmouth senior, G. H. Tuttle, of Lebanon, and Timothy Sullivan, of Hanover, were at work on the stone tower in College Park to-day, the staging gave way and precipitated them 35 feet to the rock below. Gardiner was seriously but not fatally injured. Tuttle was frightfully cut about the head and is unconscious but may recover. Sullivan escaped with a few bruises. The work of building the tower originated two years ago and is wholly done by seniors. Each graduating class expects to add ten feet to the structure.

THE WEATHER.

Enlightening the World.

INAUGURATION OF BARTHOLDI'S GREAT STATUE.

A Magnificent Military, Civic and Naval Pageant.

New York in a Blaze of Glory and Enthusiasm.

The President Reviews the Procession.

Ceremonies at the Unveiling.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28. A light fog pervades the rivers and harbor completely obscuring Bedloe's Island from the high roofs of the Broadway buildings, from which thousands of people expect to view the unveiling of the Statue of Liberty and the novel parade. As early as 7 o'clock bands of music were heard in the streets preceding their regiments on the way to their appointed places in the line.

All the hotels and boarding houses are full to overflowing with strangers who have come here to witness the events of the day. American and French flags are flying from all the public and many business buildings in this city and Brooklyn and the shipping in the harbor is gaily decorated.

Reception of Visiting Mayors.

Mayor Grace arrived at the City Hall shortly after nine o'clock this morning and welcomed the different mayors and heads of departments from various cities who had arrived to take part in the festivities. Among these were Mayor Whitney of Brooklyn, accompanied by his staff, occupying 35 carriages, Mayor Joseph Haynes of Newark and the Board of Aldermen of that city, Mayor Bulkley of Hartford, with several aldermen, Mayor Thatcher of Albany and the aldermen, Mayor Beauregard of Montreal, Mayor Cleveland of Jersey City, Mayor Rockfeller of Plainfield and Mayor Redmond of Salem, Mass.

All night rain fell at intervals and the day broke with a sky obscured by leaden clouds. The wet pavements, mud, chill air and general discomfort however were no appreciable bar to the public enthusiasm.

The Parade Begins to Form.

At 9 o'clock the first division of the parade commenced to form on 58th street and 5th avenue. The Fifth U. S. Artillery and the Engineer Corps took their position in front of Secretary Whitney's house a few minutes after 9. Next came the Old Guard who stood near the carriages waiting for the President and his cabinet to leave Secretary Whitney's residence where they had spent the night.

The President and Cabinet.

Promptly at 10 o'clock President Cleveland, accompanied by Secretary of State Bayard, descended the steps and entered an open carriage. They were followed by Secretary Whitney, Postmaster General Vilas, Secretary Lamar, Rear Admiral Luce and staff and Major Whipple. The Old Guard surrounded the carriages and at a quarter past ten commenced the march down Fifth avenue. Both sides of the street were crowded with people who waved their hats and applauded loudly as the President's carriage passed.

The Military Pageant.

On all the side streets, from Central Park down to the stand on 24th street, different military companies and civic organizations were formed. The carriages containing the President and Cabinet were followed by a battalion of 250 police. The U. S. Naval Brigade came next with the Engineers Corps, which consisted of 250 men. The Second Regiment, N. G. S. N. Y., numbering 325 men, fell into line at 59th street together with 200 men, composing the detachment of Massachusetts Volunteer Militia. These were followed by the 7th Regiment, 400 men, the 8th Regiment, 250 men, the 12th Regiment, 500 men, the 11th Regiment, 224 men, the 1st Regiment, 300 men, and the French Societies, numbering 2500 men.

The Governors of States.

The Governors of Massachusetts, Maine, Vermont, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, New Jersey, and Maryland, and their staffs, together with the United States Judges, entered carriages at the Windsor Hotel and fell into line behind the French associations. Then came the mayors of cities, municipal officials, a battalion of the police of Philadelphia, 400 men, battalion of the police forces of Brooklyn and Jersey City, 300 men, veterans of the war of 1812, the Aztec Club, veterans of the Mexican war and military order of the Loyal Legion.

The Fourth Division

was under the command of Col. C. A. Wells and was made up of war veterans military organizations and posts of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The Fifth division consisted of Grand Army posts. Col. Winchester acted as marshal of the sixth division, consisting of 500 men belonging to the Washington City Continental Guard, with Gen Washington's carriage, the Old Washington Continental Guard, Sons of the Revolution, Sons of Veterans. Major-General A S. Webb acted as marshal of the seventh division and had in his command 300 men comprising different educational institutions. The eighth division, numbering 800 men, was made up of independent military organizations.

Civic Associations.

The ninth division was composed of representatives of the Brooklyn fire department, the procession of old Brooklynites, the Mayor of Brooklyn and city officials.

The tenth division was composed of the Volunteer Firemen's Association, the Board of Trade and Transportation, uniformed Knights of Pythias, Odd Fellows and other civic societies.

At 10 40 the Old Guard, acting as a guard of honor to the President, and headed by the 13th regiment band arrived at the reviewing stand. The President was greeted with hearty cheers. Accompanying the President were Secretaries Bayard, Whitney and Lamar, Postmaster General Vilas and Gen. Schofield and Admiral Luce with their staffs and Colonel Lamont. At 11 o'clock the procession reached the head of the reviewing line.

The French Delegation.

The most of the distinguished visitors from France stood on the reviewing stand directly at the President's back. The party included Count De Lesseps, Bartholdi and Consul General Albert Le Faivre. M. Bartholdi was deeply impressed by the spectacle.

On the water there had been active preparations. The war vessels of the North Atlantic Squadron lay at anchor off Liberty Island in the bay. A rainbow of colors was sprung over the topmasts of each vessel, touching each masthead and dipping fore and aft. The tri-colored flag floated from the staff of the Brooklyn pier of the big bridge, while on the top of the New York tower was the stars and stripes.

The Marine Parade.

The formation of the marine part of the parade began on Hudson river opposite West 45th street at an early hour, but owing to the foggy weather it was after one o'clock before the signal gun for the start was fired. At this time there were probably 100 vessels drawn up in two divisions. The first was composed of large steamers and the second of tugs and smaller vessels. Some of these were beautifully decorated with flags and bunting. United States steamship Despatch lay off West 23d street and as the column of boats approached President Cleveland arrived with his suite and prepared to go on board as the guns fired a President's salute.

A halt was ordered until the Dispatch got under way when with a loud blast of whistles the column of boats followed on behind toward the statue.

The Military and Civil Organizations proceeded down Broadway to Main street where they turned into Park Row and past the World Building. They then turned past the Herald office to Lower Broadway, where they were disbanded. The procession was greeted with enthusiastic cheers all through the line of march. Accompanying the Presidential party and French delegation on the reviewing stand were members of the Diplomatic corps, Lieut. General Sheridan, General Schofield and staff, Gov. Hill, Gen. Wiley, Lieut. Gov. Jones, General K. Knox, General Duryea, Admiral Luce and staff, Judges Brown and Benedict, Ex-Mayor Wickham, J. Parker, Gen. Daniel E. Sickles and General Ingalls.

The Embarkation.

The lower part of Broadway, Battery Park and the wharves were covered with a throng as the procession pushed its way, and the first to embark for Bedloe's Island was the 69th Regiment. The other organizations followed quickly and the heavily loaded vessels pushed off one after the other. The river and bay were covered with gaily decked craft of every size and shape. Men-of-war were anchored in line off the island. The favorite position was in front of the great statue and here vessels gathered in almost a compact mass, leaving barely room for the various steamers to land the invited guests at the wharf.

These Guests Began to Arrive at about two o'clock, and filing through the mist clambered upon the platform assigned them. Now and then the explosion of a gun was heard, with impatient shrieks of steamboat whistles, cheers and music. Finally came the boom of the signal guns and the sailors manned the yards of the war ships. The President and his party were taken from the Dispatch to the wharf in a little steam yacht, being greeted with cheers from the boats nearest by. No sooner had he landed than the salutes began, the battery nearly at Liberty's feet being answered by the war ships and heavy guns on Governor's Island. At the same moment every steam whistle in the fleet began to toot and the mist settled down more thickly than ever.

The Tri-Color and "Old Glory."

The pedestal of the statue, the fort and platforms for the spectators were bright with flags and streamers, the tri-color of France dividing the honors with the Star Spangled Banner. Over the face of Liberty was drawn a large French flag. The balcony from which the addresses were given was reserved for the President's party, the French visitors and speakers. The Frenchmen were cheered as they arrived and modestly took their places. The 22d Regiment Band, led by Gilmore played the Marseilles and other popular airs. After a long delay, all the dignitaries being seated, Gen. Schofield tried to call the multitude to order. He was only partly successful. The exercises were disturbed at intervals by the rude tooting of whistles off on the water.

Dedicatory Prayer by Rev. Dr. Storrs.

Finally Rev. Dr. Storrs was called on and prayed that: "Thou who enablest man to mould the metal, and make lightning his servant, will accept the dedication of this monument to Thee, and that there it may continue, untouched of tempest, its foundation of rocks not shaken by earthquake, while waters encircle it and the light of morning returns to greet it. We pray that liberty which it represents, may continue to enlighten, with beneficent instruction, and to bless with majestic and wide benediction, the nations which have a part in this work of renown; that it may stand a symbol of perpetual concord between them, and that, walking in the paths of knowledge and freedom, they may constantly advance in wisdom of their council, in magnanimous enterprise, and in the noble and salutary arts which are cherished by peace."

M. De Lesseps' Presentation Speech.

M. Ferdinand De Lesseps then made a brief presentation speech, in behalf of the Franco-American Union. He spoke of the conception of the statue, the work of the committee, of which he was a member, to bring the matter to the attention of the French Government, the popular contribution to the cost of founding the work and its final departure on the Izere.

Senator Evarts Followed.

What ornaments of speech, he said, what eloquence of human voice, what costly gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh of our hearts can we bring to the celebration of this consummate triumph of genius, of skill, of labor, which speaks to-day, and will speak forever the thoughts, feeling and friendships of the two populous, powerful and free republics knit together in their pride and joy at their own established freedom and in their hope and purpose that the glad light of liberty shall enlighten the world. After appropriate allusions to the friendly relations which have existed between the United States and the liberty loving people of France, he paid a high compliment to the "great sculptor, Bartholdi." eulogized the principles which the statue represents and reviewed briefly the circumstances attending the statue's acceptance and reception in this country.

The Unveiling of the Statue.

The address was cut short by the premature unveiling of the statue the wrong cue being taken as the signal for the ceremony. The Senator accepted the situation gracefully however and retired. The unveiling was one of the prettiest and most perfect features of the day. The corners of the veil were unloosened and fluttered for a moment in the breeze, when the whole flag was drawn up through an opening in the tiara, disappearing as if by magic into the forehead of the statue. Then the signified features of the Goddess appeared to the multitude, the fog having lifted.

For a moment the din of cannonading and whistling was renewed, a salute of 100 guns being fired on Bedloe's Island, to which the war ships and Governor's Island responded. As the sounds died away President Cleveland stepped forward and accepted the statue in the following words:

President Cleveland's Speech of Acceptance.

The people of the United States accept with gratitude, from their brethren of the French Republic, the grand and completed work of art we herein inaugurate.

This token of affection and consideration of the people of France demonstrates the kinship of Republics and conveys to us the assurance that in our efforts to commend to mankind the excellence of a government resting upon the popular will, we still have beyond the American continent a steadfast ally. We are not here to-day to bow before a representation of a fierce and war-like god, filled with wrath and vengeance, but we joyously contemplate instead our own duty, keeping watch and ward before the open gates of America, and greater than all that have been celebrated in ancient song.

Instead of grasping in her hand thunder bolts of terror and of death, she holds aloft the light which illumines the way to man's enfranchisement. We will not forget that liberty has here made her home, nor shall her chosen altar be neglected. Willing votaries will constantly keep alive the fires and these shall gleam upon the shores of our sister republic in the east, reflected there and joined with answering rays the stream of light shall pierce the darkness of ignorance and man's oppression until liberty enlightens the world.

Speech of Consul General Le Faivre.

M. Albert Le Faivre, French Consul General to New York, spoke next as the representative of the Republic of France.

The Finale.

Chauncy M. Depew followed. The doxology was sung and Bishop Potter, clad in Ecclesiastical garments, pronounced the benediction. No name spoken during the day caused so much enthusiasm as that of Bartholdi, loud cheering greeting it everywhere.

There was an inexcusable lack of arrangement in leaving the island and embarking again for home. The French visitors were scattered here and there in the crush and detained in it for nearly an hour. The fireworks planned for this evening as a close to the festivities were postponed till Saturday evening on account of the rain.

A fine constitution may be ruined by simple neglect. Many bodily ills result from habitual constipation. There is no medicine equal to Ayer's Pills for restoring the system to natural and healthy action. oct29 d&w1w

LOCAL MATTERS.

A new piece of sidewalk of considerable length is being laid on Park Street.

The boys who broke the glass in the First Congregational church were arrested yesterday.

Matters were very quiet in the police court room yesterday, there being no cases for trial.

Messrs. Lynch & Gallagher's market on Exchange street was connected by telephone yesterday.

Conductor R. H. Elms took a special freight train to Old Town yesterday afternoon and it came back heavily loaded.

The residence of Mrs. Isaiah Stetson on Union Street has been leased by Mr. W. S. Higgins who now occupies it with his family.

The Adventists have resumed work on their church on Centre street and intend to push operations now until it is completed.

A large new boiler to furnish steam for heating Kenduskeag Block is being made at the Penobscot River Steam Boiler Works.

Commencing next Monday and continuing until Jan. 31st the city schools are to close at half past four o'clock on account of early darkness.

The stock in the Penobscot River Dam and Improvement Company was all taken very quickly and the company will be organized this afternoon.

There was a bad break in the water main on Union street, near the residence of Mr. Jacob Stern, last evening and a crew was sent there to repair it.

Mr. Frank Gilman has purchased the residence of the late Zaccheus P. Eastes, on Hammond street. The price paid is reported to have been about $5,000.

Monitor Engine Company of Orono will give their 19th annual ball on Wednesday evening Nov. 3d. Music is to be furnished by Messrs. Abbott, Prim and R. B. Hall.

Children's meeting under the auspices of the Crusade this evening at the reading rooms, Franklin Street. The ladies hope to see a large number of children present.

The Supreme Judicial court has nearly finished its business and possibly one jury may be discharged to-day. It is thought that the court will adjourn early next week.

On account of the northeast rain storm which raged very hard in Boston Wednesday night the steamer Katahdin did not leave there but left last night at the usual hour.

There were no arrivals or clearances in this port yesterday something which has not occurred before this season. The storm prevented vessels from reaching here.

The remains of the late George A. French Esq. who died so very suddenly in this city Wednesday were taken to his home in Manchester, N. H. on the train last evening.

Mr. Charles F. Thoms, of this city, returned home yesterday from a hunting trip down east with a fine doe. Few Bangor sportsmen go out now and return unsuccessful.

Almon Lewis, of this city, who lives on the old Levant road and is employed in the Bangor Furniture manufactory caught his hand in a moulding machine yesterday morning and mangled it very badly.

There will be a meeting for social Bible study at the Young Men's Christian Association to-night at eight o'clock. Topic Sunday School lesson of next Sunday. All young men are cordially invited.

Conductor Belonga took a special freight train heavily loaded to Waterville last evening, returning late in the night. The regular freights are entirely unable to handle the business of the road at present.

The railroad people are running the parlor car on the noon train from this city to Boston at present simply as an experiment. If it is well patronized it will be continued all winter but if not it will be taken off Dec 1st.

Messrs. John Ross, Edward Spencer and Samuel N. Hodgdon all started crews of woodsmen for the scene of their operations on the West Branch yesterday morning. Men are now leaving for the woods nearly every day.

The house and barn on the Stanwood place in North Woodville, owned by Robert Moran, were burned Monday. The fire caught in the barn from a match lighted and then thrown away after it was supposed to be extinguished.

The Grand Army encampments in this State the coming winter at which Commander in Chief Lucius Fairchild, of Wisconsin will be present, will occur Jan. 25th and 26th. The places where they are to be held have not yet been decided upon.

Some lumbermen from this city and Orland are about to commence getting lumber for last blocks on land of Stratton and Engel, in Shirley and have erected a large shed near the hotel for the purpose of storing the blocks as fast as they are made.

The handsome pair of bays brought to this city by A. G. Hunt, Esq., of Belfast, have been purchased by Mr. W. S. Morrill. It is reported that the price paid was five hundred dollars. The span is very stylish and will attract very much notice on the streets.

The Mattawamkeag and Baskahegan lumber operations say that there will be less work done on those waters this year than usual. Many lumbermen will transfer the scene of their labors to the West Branch which will be a busy looking place this winter.

Messrs. J. Frank St. Clair and Fred Matheas, who have been off with a team on a hunting trip returned home last evening with two splendid bucks and a fine doe the whole lot being as handsome as was ever brought here. They are two hunters who should certainly never complain of ill luck.

The work of stringing a Western Union telegraph wire from this city to Vanceboro commenced yesterday. The wire is probably for a reserve, as no connections are to be made with it. The crew can cover about ten miles per day with the wire and will therefore require some twelve days for their work.

The Farmington Chronicle has issued a regular edition this week with creditable enterprise. It was printed in Lewiston, but an editorial says that very soon the paper will have quarters of its own. Mr. J. M. S. Hunter, the editor and publisher, possesses the required amount of courage to pass through a dozen fires, it would seem.

Hon. Clarence Pullen who so pleasantly entertained Bangor people last spring with his instructive lecture on New Mexico, has returned to Boston, after spending the summer in that territory collecting material for a course of lectures with illustrations. The subject is an interesting one, and Mr. Pullen has superior advantages for such an undertaking.

A correspondent writes that David F. Gilman, of Newport, who was so badly injured by a fall some five weeks ago, was thought to be improving, but had a relapse last Sunday night and is now dangerously ill.

We learn that Mr. James Stetson, of Lincoln, formerly head clerk at the Penobscot Exchange and later clerk of the Quincy House, Boston, has leased the De Witt House at Lewiston and will take possession Jan. 1st. Mr. Stetson is a very popular hotel man, having many friends among the travelling public.

Our State College correspondent writes: F. E. Trask, '87, and A. R. Saunders, '87, have been appointed editors of the Cadet in place of B. E. Clark and H. A. McNally, who have resigned.——C. H. Stevens, '87, J. W. Edgerly, '89, and E. F. Heath, '90, left Wednesday to represent the State College branch of the Y. M. C. A. at the convention in Portland.

The handsome Directors' car "Saskatchewan" of the Canadian Pacific Railway arrived in this city from the east last night on the regular train. On board was Mr. W. C. Van Horne, General Manager of the Road, with several other gentlemen. They remained here all night and will leave for the west this morning. They have made quite a tour of the Provinces.

A very sad accident occurred in Bradley late yesterday afternoon. A little son of Mr. James Hickey of that town was returning home from school and had to cross the bridge over Otter Stream known as Bullen bridge. In crossing he attempted to walk the railing and accidentally slipped and fell a distance of fifteen feet into the stream. He was drowned before assistance could reach him. His remains were recovered.

Game is very scarce in the city markets at present and the dealers can hardly account for it. The season for duck and woodcock is over while no deer are coming in and probably will not until near the holiday season. Partridges are also hard to find this week and sell quickly. Their scarcity is probably owing to the low prices paid for them last week. They will commence coming in faster in a few days.

The United States revenue cutter Woodbury in command of Lieut. Simmons has been in Portland taking coal and sailed from there yesterday to search for a small yacht built steamer which is reported to be engaged in smuggling liquors from Grand Manan to Bar Harbor to be sold in Maine. The cutter will make a thorough examination in all the bays and harbors in quest of the steamer, which is said to be violating the laws against smuggling.

A pair of horses attached to a hay rack were relieved of their bridles yesterday, on Front Street so that they could be fed. They suddenly started to run and passed it a flying rate up Broad Street, through Central Street and some distance upon Harlow Street before they were stopped. That some serious damage was not done by them was a wonder for the streets were full of teams at the time. There is a city ordinance against taking the headstalls from horses and feeding them in the streets and it should be better enforced.

A special meeting of the Water Board was held at the Aldermen's Room last night to consider a large petition in favor of a second main across the Kenduskeag stream. All the members were present and the following order passed: Voted, That the Inspector, with the advice of the Advisory Committee cause a twelve-inch water main to be laid across Kenduskeag Stream from the main in Exchange street where Hancock street crosses it to the water main on Broad street near the foot of Water street, as soon as practicable.

A BAD FALL. Henry Wheeler of this city, a man about forty-five years of age living near the tin bridge, was in the second story of a house on Union street last evening. There had been a stairway on the outside of the house and a door opening out upon it, but within a few days the stairs have been removed. Wheeler, supposing they were still there, opened the door and stepped out, falling a distance of fifteen feet to the ground. His right leg was badly fractured near the ankle, a very bad cut made in the back of his head and he was otherwise injured. He was carried to the police station and afterwards sent home with physicians.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES. Dr. H. F. Hanson has shown us a late number of the magazine Annals of Hygiene, containing an article in which the author endeavors to trace the sources of diphtheria and typhoid fever, and at present the conclusions reached may be of interest to our readers. He says that the Typhoid germ is swallowed either in food or drink oftenest in water and flourishes and commits its most noticeable ravages in the digestive tract or alimentary canal, while the Diphtheritic germ is inhaled and flourishes and commits its ravages in the respiratory tract, the nostrils, fauces, larynx, windpipe and bronchial tubes.

THE GANG VISITS WINTERPORT. The corn and flour store of C. P. Rich & Son, at Winterport, was entered by burglars Wednesday night and an unsuccessful attempt made to blow open the safe. The would-be thieves forced an entrance at the basement door, went up through the store into the office, drilled a hole through the top of the safe and inserted a fuse but for some reason it failed to explode. The papers in the safe were somewhat scorched and smoked and the silver coin was blackened by the powder, but nothing of value was destroyed or taken. They evidently took alarm at something and made their exit through the window. There is no clue as yet to the robbers.

A YOUNG MARKSMAN AT HOWLAND. A few days ago a boy in Howland was given a brand new gun and wishing to try the article he shot a dog belonging to a man there. The owner started after the young sportsman, who immediately took to the bushes, where he was placed in a state of siege. He finally called out to the man that unless he at once took his departure he would meet the same fate as his dog. The man had the marksman arrested and yesterday he was brought before a Trial Justice in Lincoln to answer to a charge of assault made against him. George A. Eastman, Esq., appeared for the prosecution and A. W. Weatherbee, Esq., for the defense, and after a hearing the respondent was discharged.

LOSS OF A SCHOONER. A despatch was received here yesterday announcing the loss of the schooner Fisher, hailing from Kingston, Mass., and on her way from Bucksport to Boston with a cargo of dry fish. She struck on the famous "Old Man Ledge" sometime during Wednesday night and immediately sank in forty-five fathoms of water. She was of 86 tons burden, was built in Kingston in 1865, but we are informed that she was owned principally in Bucksport. The crew were saved. The Merchants' Insurance Company, of this city, held a policy of $1,400 on her cargo and the Union of this city had $4,000 on her hull and cargo. After a few more vessels are lost on the "Old Man" measures will probably be taken to have the top of it follow the "Fisher" into forty-five fathoms.

The Eastport relief committee received in Bangor last evening one piece of woolen goods from D. R. Campbell, of Sangerville, one piece from the Piscataquis Woolen Company, of Guilford, one piece from the Carleton Mill Company, of Sangerville, and one piece from J. B. Mayo & Son, of Foxcroft. These are all full pieces coming from the manufacturers with the request that they be forwarded with Bangor goods to Eastport and the committee will send them as requested. The donors deserve much credit for their thoughtfulness.

A CASE OF POISONING. Four children of Elijah Rogers, at 25 Bower street, and another belonging to Frank Thurston, at 26 Everett street, were taken sick in school yesterday forenoon and were obliged to go home. There they vomited and showed every sign of poisoning. It was found that they had all breakfasted on milk purchased of the same grocer. He was visited and found to have been sick and it is supposed from using the same milk. It may have been that the milk had in some way been in contact with substances containing arsenic. This would cause the symptoms shown. Another theory advanced by the attending physician is that the lack of good water in the pastures had affected the milk of the cows. The children were all right last evening.

A FENCE BUILDER. Mr. J. P. Brown, of Rising Sun, Ind., was in the city yesterday with an interesting machine which he has invented and calls a "Railway Fence Builder." It is a curious and yet simple contrivance, being made to move along on its own wheels like a bicycle and is designed to build a picket fence directly upon the posts in the field where it is to remain. Heavy wires are used instead of long bars, to which pickets are fastened and the wires are arranged in parts. The pickets are thrust down between them and a turn of the handle of the machine twists the wires and holds the picket securely in place. The fence will last twenty-five years, and it is claimed that it will withstand a strain of 6,975 pounds. A rod of the fence can be built in six minutes and it makes a very straight and ornamental structure. Mr. Brown has been showing it at the Bay State Fair in Boston and sold so many that the purchasers were unable to find enough pickets in the market to supply them. He is therefore here for the purpose of contracting with our lumber merchants for pickets. The Boston & Lowell Railway are to build one piece of fence requiring two millions of pickets.

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT.

October (Civil) Term.

HON. ENOCH FOSTER, Associate Justice Presiding.
CHARLES D. CHAPMAN, Esq., Sheriff.
CHARLES F. SWEET, Esq., Clerk.
RUEL SMITH, Esq., Reporter.

Thursday, Oct. 28th.

The Court will hear the divorce cases on Saturday, Oct. 30th inst.

The case of Richard W. Pratt vs. Matthew Lincoln, reported in the WHIG yesterday, has been sent to the Law Court on report.

Davis & Bailey for plaintiff.

Barker, Vose & Barker for defendant.

ON TRIAL.

Jonathan Carter appellant, vs. Dennis Higgins. Assumpsit. This action is brought to recover of defendant the amount of $13 35 which plaintiff says is due him for taking care of defendant while sick and for medicines furnished, etc. Defendant says plaintiff was more than paid by board furnished.

John F. Robinson for plaintiff.

J. Hutchings for defendant.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Si Perkins, or the Girl I Left Behind Me."

The Opera House will be closed until next Tuesday, when Frank Jones and Alice Montague will commence a two two nights' engagement in E. A. Locke's melo-dramatic comedy, entitled "Si Perkins, or the Girl I left Behind Me." The sale of seats will open to-morrow morning. The Norwich (Conn.) Bulletin says:

Frank Jones made his first appearance in this city yesterday as Si Perkins, and was given an ovation seldom accorded an actor in this place. The appearance at midday of a "Country Band," with the red bandana waver in front, created a craze which never lost its force until the conclusion of the performance in the evening. Every seat and every inch of standing room was sold and many people were turned away because there was not room to accommodate them. The drama was made up of a series of thrilling scenes, bright and humorous repartee, fine music and eccentric sayings, and through the entire four acts the audience were bursting their buttons off with laughter.

Concert at City Hall.

There will be a large audience at the concert to be given in City Hall Saturday evening by Mr. M. Dennett and the Haynes Concert Company for the benefit of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Dennett is an artist who has met with a very favorable reception everywhere. A State paper says of him:

In our opinion his happiest effort was in the delivery of "Artemus Ward's Lecture." With no aid from gesticulation or dialect, the speaker, without raising his voice or moving a muscle, succeeded in convulsing his audience with laughter. Mr. Dennett's success plainly demonstrates that the genuine humorist may delight his hearers without descending to buffoonery, or employing the cheap tricks which too often constitute the "funny man's" entire stock in trade. We hope to have the pleasure of hearing him again in Richmond.

Notes.

Charles Verner, the Irish comedian who is to appear here next week is in St. John at present and the Telegraph speaks of him as the most versatile actor in his line who ever visited there.

The sprightly Myra Goodwin who appears here one week from Saturday night in "Sis" will no doubt attract an immense audience to the Opera House.

Another Good Meeting.

Certainly every one who heard Mr. Doutney at Norombega Hall last night were more than favorably impressed with the sad story of his father's death. He said: "Father died of a broken heart. He was not a drinking man, but my drunkenness and waywardness killed him." His lecture, or rather talk, was a warning from beginning to end, and was delivered as became the occasion, being filled with touching and tender allusions to his parents. He suffered much in childhood. He spoke feelingly for boot-blacks, newsboys and poor children of both sexes as one that has ever been heard to speak on the subject.

"Be kind to poor children" he said, "more especially if they are orphans." "No pain," continued the speaker, "is as intense as the pain endured by a child feeling it is alone, poor and without friends." Mr. Doutney's talk last night seems to have made a better impression than anything yet said and no doubt because it touched points never alluded to by others. Mrs. Doutney sang two selections suitable for the occasion. What is said of her husband can be as well said for her sweet singing. To-night Mr. Doutney gives a court scene imitating Judge, Jury, Attorneys and Clients in dialect, action, &c.

Sunday School Convention.

The Penobscot Sunday School Convention met yesterday afternoon with the Congregational church in Brewer at 2.30 P. M. An interesting prayer and praise service was held for half an hour. In the absence of the President, Rev. N. H. Harriman, Vice President Rev. A. S. Ladd took the chair and called the meeting to order. Rev. S. W. Chapin, of Holden, Rev. B. B. Merrill and Manly Hardy, of Brewer, were appointed a committee on nominations, after which a paper was read by Rev. G. B. Ilsley on "The history and some of the characteristics of The Book." The discussion which followed was participated in by Rev. A. S. Ladd, Rev. S. W. Chapin, Major G. M. Brown, of Bangor, and Dea. Geo. A. Snow, of Brewer. The officers named by the committee were as follows:

President, Rev. A. S. Ladd; Vice President, Rev. A. W. Anthony; Secretary, Rev. G. B. Ilsley; Assistant Secretary, Charles S. Pearl, Esq.; Treasurer, Frank Nickerson, Esq.; Executive Committee, Rev. A. S. Ladd, Rev. F. C. Rogers, Rev. H. L. Griffin, Dea. O. H. Ingalls, Mr. Arthur E. Gilman.

The evening session was opened by the singing of several beautiful selections by the choir, a large congregation having assembled. Rev. A. S. Ladd then delivered a very interesting and instructive address on the duties of parents to the Sunday School. Remarks were made by Rev. G. B. Ilsley. Many practical questions were then asked by different ones and answered by Rev. Mr. Merrill of Brewer, Rev. Mr. Smiley of Brewer Village Rev. Mr. Wilkins and others. After singing by the choir the benediction was pronounced by the President. The meeting was one of much profit.

To Erect Monuments at Gettysburg.

Some time ago Gen. Charles Hamlin introduced a motion into B. H. Beale Post, G. A. R., to ask the coming Legislature for an appropriation for the Gettysburg Battlefield Memorial Association. The motion was carried and Comrades Hamlin, Boutelle and Farnham were chosen a committee to draft a proper memorial. Last evening Gen. Hamlin submitted the following, which was adopted, and the committee were authorized to print and distribute copies to the Posts of the Department for the signature of all their members:

To the Senate and House of Representatives in Legislature to be assembled:

Your petitioners, members of B. H. Beale Post, No. 12, Bangor, Department of Maine, G. A. R., respectfully ask your Honorable body for an appropriation of Five Thousand Dollars to be expended under the direction of the Governor and Council in aid of the Gettysburg Battlefield Memorial Association, to the end that the erection of Memorial Tablets and Monuments for the eleven regiments and three batteries of this State which served with honor and distinction in the great battle of Gettysburg, July 1, 2 and 3, 1863, may be facilitated in the manner designated and employed by said Association.

And your memorialists further show that whereas but one monument of a Maine regiment,—being that of the Twentieth Regiment and erected by private means—has been erected on this historical battlefield, there have been erected by Delaware 2, Minnesota 1, Connecticut 4, Indiana 6, Rhode Island 4, Massachusetts 24, Pennsylvania 25, and New York and Ohio have recently appropriated for the purpose large sums of money ranging from ten to forty thousand dollars thus adding upwards of an hundred monuments to those already erected. Besides these last named appropriations New Hampshire has granted $3000, Indiana $3000, New Jersey $6000 and Massachusetts $18,000.

Wherefore your memorialists appeal to the patriotism of the State to emulate the example thus established by sister States of the Union in honor of our heroic soldiers, both living and dead, who fought on this the greatest historic and monumental battlefield of the world.

Millinery Openings

The very handsome store of Mrs. A. E. Miller, at 121 Main street, was crowded to overflowing all day yesterday, and for the reason one had only to look at the unique sign in one of the large show windows upon which was the word "opening" quite ingeniously constructed. Mrs. Miller has so large a stock of fall and winter millinery that we cannot mention goods in detail. One of the most stylish hats at present exhibited in Bangor attracted the attention of every lady who went into her store yesterday. It was made with fine French feathers and in the brightest shades of heliotrope which is such a fashionable color this fall. The hat was really a beautiful one and was of course much admired by the ladies. Mrs. Miller has a fine line of millinery goods in the latest styles, including all shades of plushes, fancy feathers, birds, flowers, ribbons, etc. In addition to the millinery, she displays one of the best assortments of stamped goods and materials for art embroidery to be found in the city.

The store of Mrs. E. A. Mayville and J. T. Mayville at 45 Main Street is one of the best located and neatest millinery establishments in Bangor which accounts for the large patronage which it receives. To the large line of fine millinery goods kept at all times the owners have added a large number of the leading styles just purchased in Boston. Many hats and bonnets are shown which are particularly beautiful and attractive with a splendid lot of fancy trimmings, are placed before the purchasers. Mrs. Mayville deals in millinery goods wholly and her store is always well filled with customers.

An Insurance Case Settled.

Some time since the WHIG announced that the celebrated life insurance case of Shepard vs. Maine Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, which was entered for the October term, would not come to trial. This has proved to be the case, as the case was adjusted by counsel before the sitting of the court, and we are now enabled to present our readers with the facts in this somewhat celebrated case which has created a good deal of interest in this city and in Auburn, which is the headquarters of the company. It was found upon investigation, and the company was prepared to prove, that the deceased King, the insured party, was sixty-four years of age at the date of the insurance, while under the rules of the company no person is admitted after reaching the age of sixty years.

The question of over age has been recently decided by the Supreme Court of this State and in favor of the insurance company. The Company also placed their defense upon the misrepresentation in the application made by King that he was a single man, while in fact he was married and a widow and five children survive him and reside in Everett, Mass. This was regarded as a material misrepresentation and in view of recent decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States was deemed fatal to the policy. Mrs King, the widow recently came to Bangor and gave her deposition in full, the plaintiff being represented by Messrs. Stetson and Varney, and the Company by Messrs. Hamlin and Mitchell. The Company further allege that they could prove, by circumstantial evidence, that King did not pay, with his own money, the insurance premiums, and contended that was void both because of its wagering character and because it was made payable to a third party, "the friend" of the insured.

As far as we can learn no account was taken of the medical aspects of the case. There are indications from which it is presumed that King's illness was from Bright's disease. In compromising the case for something less than the expense attending the trial, provision was made for the payment of the sum of $500 to the widow, Mrs. King, and her counsel. Mrs. King regards herself as having, under the circumstances, been very generously treated by the company. King's history shows that he was married at Truro, N. S., and deserted his family about ten years ago, and they supposed him to be dead for several years, and knew nothing of his history after the desertion until made acquainted with the facts by General Hamlin, who, as attorney for the company, looked up King's antecedents and discovered the whereabouts of his family. The company have shown much vigilance in their treatment of the case, and the result will prove of much advantage, both to insurance companies and persons honestly seeking insurance for the benefit of their families.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

[From London Society.]

Under Orders.

In a shabby ground-floor room, which contrived to do duty as study, dining-room, nursery, and general sitting-room of a vicarage in the East End of London, sat, one afternoon in late autumn, a mother and son. That most pathetic kind of poverty—the kind which is linked in indissoluble union with gentility—had stamped this nondescript apartment for its own.

The mother, a middle-aged lady, with a careworn, refined face, diligently darned a small sock which stood greatly in need of her services; the son, a young man of about three and twenty, with a slim, lithe figure and a boyish, handsome, sensitive face, mechanically watched her flying needle as he listened or replied.

Mrs. Murray was wife of the vicar of St. Stephen's, Whitechapel, an elderly, scholarly, unsuccessful clergyman, whose means were wholly inadequate to meet all the claims made on him by a numerous family. The son—David by name—had early developed intellectual tastes; his expenses at school and college had been defrayed by a wealthy eccentric kinsman of his mother. The youth turned out shy, studious and dreamy, the possessor of an enthusiasm for poetry, but of little practical ability, and of no instinctive knowledge of the world. When, with the attainment of the "Newdigate" and a good degree, his college career came to an end, and the time arrived when aid in the adoption of a calling would have been highly acceptable, the relation's assistance was capriciously withdrawn.

David Murray returned home; and doubt reigned under the paternal roof with regard to his prospects in life. His father shook his head dubiously when the young man bashfully professed himself a wooer of the muse and expressed a desire to follow the vocation of a poet. "Poetry doesn't pay, even when the writer is a genius, and—you are not a genius, you know, David," said the clergyman, with sorrowful candor.

Mrs. Murray belonged to a wealthy family who had taken umbrage at her marriage with a poor parson. Her brothers and sisters had consigned her to oblivion, and her name was omitted from her father's will. But a few days before my story opens a sister, the widow of a fabulously rich East Indian merchant, named Wilton, held out the golden sceptre of reconciliation, and Mrs. Murray touched it with trembling rapture.

"We are sisters," graciously wrote Mrs. Wilton from Florence, where she was spending some months, "and it is time to forget our differences." From this exordium the widow passed to the narration of a family quarrel, which had indirect relation to the Murray interests. "I am greatly disappointed," she wrote, "in my nephew Tom—poor James' son—who, till lately, managed my estates in Devon and Somerset. He has given me grave cause for displeasure, and I have shut my doors upon him. This being the case, I am anxious to make the acquaintance of your eldest lad, who has received no benefits from me, and from whom, therefore, according to the way of the world"—anger invested the writer's pen with unwonted sarcasm—"I expect the more gratitude. You have not yet, I suppose, seen your way to putting your son into any profession. Well, Tom's empty place, as steward, may in time and after due preparation suit him—who knows? I am resolved to take the lad. I even build castles in the air for him, and have in my head a scheme for his marriage with my husband's ward, Joyce Balfour, who lives with me and is my heiress. Send your son to Florence, to pass the winter here, and to return with us in the spring to Devonshire. Let him spend what time and see what places he likes en route. I enclose a check for his traveling expenses."

Consciousness of the pique (aroused by "Nephew Tom") which obviously lay at the bottom of this letter, did not disturb the pleasure with which Mrs. Murray received her sister's overtures. She told herself, in her simple piety, that Providence had opened a way for the provision of her son; she called on David to rejoice with her.

But David refused to rejoice. On the afternoon when we find him in the Whitechapel parlor, his aunt's communication was under discussion, and his contribution to the conversation was flavored with the spice of petulance. He was seated on a low chair at his mother's feet, his elbows on his knees, his face in his hands, and his eyes fixed gloomily on the fire. One clause in the letter—that relating to a possible marriage between Joyce Balfour and himself—had aroused his ire. The young man's ideal of marriage was high and pure; to have it rudely broken in upon with mercenary suggestions, and with the threatened interposition of a third person to regulate his choice, was to the last degree distasteful to him.

"Who is this Joyce Balfour, mother?" asked David, tossing aside the momentous letter.

"I know little more of her than your aunt tells us, dear; she was Mr. Wilton's ward, is rather younger than you, I fancy, and I have heard that she has considerable property. When she inherits my sister's estates, in addition to her own, she will be enormously rich. Your aunt"—with a slight pause and a wistful look in David's direction—"was always fond of match-making. If her fancy for an engagement between you two young people should be realized your fortune would be made, David."

"But I don't want my fortune to be made—after that fashion," cried the young man hotly. "What do I know and what do I care about Miss Balfour?"

"She will be enormously rich," urged the mother, falling feebly back on her first point. "I should be glad to know you were saved from a poor man's portion, David, for I have learned by experience how hard it is to struggle against poverty."

The mother laid down her sock and glanced appealingly toward the young man, who responded with a frown. David was young, and he had dreams of an affluent position, to be won, not by a mercenary marriage, but by literary achievements. But he could not brag of his spurs before he had won them; he grew silent.

"We have no right to assume, mother," he burst forth at length, his slumbering chivalry awakening a new life, "that Miss Balfour would accept the honor of an alliance with myself, even if I were inclined to offer it."

Mrs. Murray smiled. She took up her work again.

"Miss Balfour is probably aware," she said, as she stopped to rethread her needle, "of your aunt's plans, and she must know that it might be greatly against her interest to oppose them."

There was another silence.

"At least you will not decide in the matter till you have seen Miss Balfour, David?"

"No, I will not decide till I have seen her."

"And you will go to Florence?"

David rose, walked to the window, and looked out. But he saw nothing; his thoughts were far away. "Florence" was a fascinating name to the untraveled lad; he wished that his errand there were not so unwelcome.

"Yes, I will go," he said slowly, "if I can reconcile myself to the thought that I am ousting my unknown cousin Tom from my aunt's favor."

"Nonsense!" The flying needle halted in mid-course. "You are not ousting him; he has already ousted himself. Don't be Quixotic, dear."

David sighed. His last hope of escape seemed dissipated.

Just at this moment the sound of fleet footsteps was heard, the door flew open, and three or four children who had been passing—as marks of treacle on hands, faces and pinafores testified—an agreeable half hour in the kitchen, appeared on the scene. Their advent was the signal for David's departure to his own room.

A few days later the young man started on his travels. In the excitement inseparable from a first foreign tour the object of his wanderings was almost forgotten. He went through the usual vicissitudes of a long journey. The usual important package was left behind, and its absence, as usual, discovered too late for recovery. The usual countings of handbags and wraps were performed, and then the recountings, to make assurance doubly sure. The usual sprightliness on boarding, and dejectedness on leaving, the packet was duly experienced. Then came hurried meals at railway stations, then views of monotonous French landscape, with its inevitable long, straight rows of poplars, then glimpses of bolder scenery, of chalets and of snow peaks, and then Switzerland burst upon David's view.

The young man had chosen the St. Gothard route; he had determined to avail himself of his aunt's generosity, and to linger over his journey; in a letter in which he announced his plans to her he spoke of an intention to spend a couple of days at Lucerne, a few hours at Milan and a week in Venice, the town which, above all others, appealed to his poetic fancy.

The lad reveled in his new experiences. His fellow tourists caught something of his enthusiasm; every day he made new friends, who parted from him at night with flattering reluctance. Not only did the wonderful sights which met his eye delight David; in his young freshness he thoroughly enjoyed the importance of ordering beds and meals or paying scores at foreign inns.

At last Italy was reached; at last Milan lay like a dream behind him, and one early morning found him sleeping fitfully in a railway carriage and nearing Venice. At five o'clock he awoke, rubbed his eyes, opened the window and looked out. The edge of a hand-bag, which had very poorly played the part of a pillow during the short night, had left proof of its insufficiency in the cramped condition of David's neck. The young man was sleepy and cold; circumstances were not favorable to his first impression of the approach to Venice. It was with some sense of dreariness that David found himself in a waste of water. Before him, behind him, and on either side, gray water stretched out, to meet a gray, cold morning sky; no land was visible. He was on the bridge—nine miles long—which connects Venice with the mainland. In a short time the forms of towers and clustering houses began to reveal themselves against the horizon; the train whizzed on, and presently the city of the Adriatic lay, broad and clear, before David's eyes.

The young man held his breath as he gazed. But a railway station is the last place for sentimentalism, and before the platform of the Venetian railway station the train came, in a few minutes, to a standstill. "Romance hasn't a chance against its arch enemy, steam," thought David, as he jumped to the ground, mustered a few words of stumbling Italian, embellished with French, and with their aid placed himself under the protection of a porter, a red-haired, well-built fellow, with a face like an old Venetian picture.

The Englishman's registered luggage was quickly collected and placed in a gondola; a herd of loafers—ragged, picturesque men and boys—swooped upon him as fair prey; one seized his umbrella; another bore off his Murray and his macintosh; a third attempted—in spite of vigorous remonstrance—to relieve him of the light burden of a small paper volume of Howel's "Venetian Life," which he held in his hand. Before the station were a number of gondolas, their proprietors hailing passengers with deafening cries of "Gondoli, Signori. Signori, gondoli, gondoli."

"What hotel does the Signore command?" asked, hat-in-hand, David's gondolier, a weather-beaten old Venetian, with the manners of a duke.

"The 'Angleterre,'" returned David, with a series of nods; he guessed the meaning of the question. Mrs. Wilton had furnished him with a list of hotels worthy his patronage in the different towns in which he was to stay.

Soon David was gliding on, along the Grand Canal, under the bridge of the Rialto, past the fruit market, with its wealth of grapes and pumpkins, beside world-famed Gothic or Renaissance palaces. He was in Venice at last—in Venice the city of dreams and the whole scene had come upon him so suddenly that he failed to grasp the reality of his surroundings.

All that day—after his luggage had been deposited, and a bedroom secured at the "Angleterre," on the Riva degli Schiavoni—David spent in sight-seeing. He wandered, half dazed with the magnificence of its beauty, up and down St. Mark's, much pestered by assiduous guides, who, recognizing his nationality, addressed him in a counterfeit of his own tongue; he visited the Doge's Palace, rambled through the galleries and crossed over the Bridge of Sighs into the prison; he lost himself in the intricate streets about the Mercería, and he strolled along the Piazza of St. Mark, listening to the afternoon band.

[S]uggish Liver

Causes the Stomach and Bowels to become disordered, and the whole system to suffer from debility. In all such cases Ayer's Pills give prompt relief.

After much suffering from Liver and Stomach troubles, I have finally been cured by taking Ayer's Cathartic Pills. I always find them prompt and thorough in their action, and their occasional use keeps me in a perfectly healthy condition.—Ralph Weeman, Annapolis, Md.

Twenty-five years ago I suffered from a torpid liver, which was restored to healthy action by taking Ayer's Pills. Since that time I have never been without them. They regulate the bowels, assist digestion, and increase the appetite, more surely than any other medicine.—Paul Churchill, Haverhill, Mass.

INVIGORATED.

I know of no remedy equal to Ayer's Pills for Stomach and Liver disorders. I suffered from a Torpid Liver, and Dyspepsia, for eighteen months. My skin was yellow, and my tongue coated. I had no appetite, suffered from Headache, was pale and emaciated. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills, taken in moderate doses, restored me to perfect health.—Waldo Miles, Oberlin, Ohio.

Ayer's Pills are a superior family medicine. They strengthen and invigorate the digestive organs, create an appetite, and remove the horrible depression and despondency resulting from Liver Complaint. I have used these Pills in my family, for years, and they never fail to give entire satisfaction.—Otto Montgomery, Oshkosh, Wis. ††

USE [?] NATURE'S REMEDY, THE ONLY TRUE BLOOD PURIFIER.

Strictly Vegetable. Composed of the plants and roots best known to our most eminent medical botanists for their alterative, tonic, and solvent properties. Scrofula, Cancerous Humors, Canker, Eruptive and Skin Diseases are speedily eradicated by its use. Vegetine annihilates disease by going to its very fountain source, and exterminating the poison from the system. It is a complete Resolvent, dissolving and carrying away through the natural channels the diseased and wasted particles, and restoring to healthy action all the functions of the body. For sixteen years this invaluable Blood Purifier has been before the public. Millions of bottles have been sold, and in no one case has it failed to effect the promised results. No other medicine has so good a record, or can show so many unsolicited testimonials.

JUSTLY CELEBRATED

TRUE'S PIN WORM ELIXIR!

A WONDERFUL REMEDY!

MARVELOUS IN ITS EFFECTS!

Mothers, save your children from the annoying and fatal effects of pin worms, by giving

DR. JOHN F. TRUE'S

Pin Worm Elixir.

A GREAT DISCOVERY!

It is claimed to be the safest, most potent and most effectual remedy known for this child killing Disease. As a cathartic vermifuge it has no equal. It expels all kinds of worms, and in fact all living creatures that infest the bowels of suffering humanity, are triumphantly expelled by this truly wonderful remedy. Testimony in its favor comes in from all sections where it is known. It not only effectually removes from the system those troublesome and disagreeable worms, but children who have been weak and puny for years, are at once improved and restored to health by its use. Being a mild and gentle laxative, it is a corrective of the greatest value. It is purely vegetable and cannot be beat. It has also expelled several lizards. One eight inches in length, is spotted, belongs to the water species and looks like a veritable young alligator. Fits caused by worms and indigestion.

BUY IT AND TRY IT.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

Cement Sewer Pipe.

OSHKOSH, Oct. 29, 1884.—For the information of those who are misled concerning Cement Sewer-pipe, I wish to state that such sewer pipe is being very extensively manufactured and used in the State of Wisconsin, and is preferred to vitrified. First, for its great strength and durability, it being from one-third to one-half stronger and less liable to crush in the ditch. Being solidly packed, in making, between iron moulds, it becomes impervious to water or acids, and, if one of these pipes, such as made in Wisconsin, is cemented tight at one end and filled with water, the water will stay there until it evaporates, which shows that it does not filter through. The older this pipe gets, the harder and more rock-like it becomes. Second, this pipe is preferred to all others on account of its shape. The larger sizes are egg-shape, contracting the flow in a narrow channel at the bottom, increasing its velocity, keeping it clean and at the same time having a large area above for a larger volume of water when needed. It also has a flat base, which makes it lay firm in the ditch, keeping it in shape, while a round pipe is more liable to roll and get out of shape, either in the filling or settling of the ditch. Cement pipe has been used for sewers in England and various parts of the old world for over one hundred years, and has proved indestructible, either by the action of sewage or time, and is still very extensively used in London and various other European cities. Brooklyn, N. Y., has over fifty miles of cement pipe sewers, laid from twenty to forty years ago, and still giving perfect satisfaction. Query: Why is cement used in brick sewers, and plastered all over the interior surface? Simply because sewage will not go through it to be filtered through the porous brick. Yours respectfully, C. B. HEWITT.

A FEW PLAIN FACTS.

For more than twenty years we have been trying to build our business on the broad corner-stone of truth and right. We still believe that the prestige of honor and the power of truth are invincible and eternal, and that people are not wise who pay big prices for Pianos, Organs and Machines, when we guarantee the same goods for less money.

We advise our customers to buy only such makes as years of experience have proved the best in the world for the money. Such makes as

Steinway & Sons, Wm. Knabe & Co.
Chickering & Sons, Hallet & Davis,
Decker Bros., Emerson & Co. Henry F. Miller.

Still if you want any other makes, don't forget we furnish them all, and you can save money by getting our lowest prices before closing any trade with any dealer, agent or friend. Try it.

THOUSANDS OF CASES OF

SICK

Headache are permanently cured every year, as the hundreds of testimonials in my possession will testify, by the use of Dr. Leslie's Special Prescription. This Remedy is without a rival and with scarcely an exception in the world. Thousands of persons throughout the country have acknowledged their inability to cure it, and are now prescribing Dr. Leslie's Special Prescription for all cases of Sick in either its nervous, bilious or congestive form, arising from obstruction, congestion or torpidity of the liver. When I say that Dr. Leslie's Special Prescription will cure the most obstinate case of Sick Headache, I mean just what I say, claiming that it not merely relieves, but cures, no matter how long the case may have been standing.

HEADACHE

I have testimonials from persons who have been afflicted for twenty years, being compelled two or three days at a time every two weeks, that have been permanently cured by its use. Dr. Leslie's Special Prescription, so that they have not had an attack for years.
